The New Police in the Nineteenth Century

Edited by Paul Lawrence, The Open University, UK

The History of Policing

Written by leading criminal justice historians, the articles brought together in this collection challenge accepted views regarding the introduction of the 'New Police' to Great Britain and Ireland during the period 1829 to 1856. The research shows that there were significant changes to the way in which Britain and Ireland were policed during the nineteenth century, but that these changes were by no means as straightforward or as progressive as they have been represented.
