Perceptions, Expectations and Experience of Group Tuition: towards a shared understanding amongst stakeholders
Anne-Marie Gallen, Ann Walshe, Anne Campbell, Mark Jones

What is tuition?
Do our students expect from tuition the same thing that we offer?
We are concerned with identifying and developing a common understanding across various stakeholders of good (group) tuition practice in the Open University.

What do we mean by tuition?

Outcomes from this project should feed into the practical implementation of the Group Tuition policy, recently adopted by Senate.
Outcomes of this project will also have implications across the sector, to inform staff developers as well as those who write material for students. As educators, we hope to improve the student learning experience within The Open University and across the sector.
