The Open University in London

Friday 31 May 2013, 18:30-20:30

The Open University invites you to consider whether witnesses to crimes can really remember 'the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth'.

In this interactive event, hosted by the Forensic Cognition Research Group, you will learn about research into attention, memory, and suggestibility. You will discover what witnesses can and can't do, and also learn how psychology and technology are being used together to improve police investigations and help witnesses to give the best possible evidence.

Speaker
Prof Graham Pike

Convenor
Dr Gemma Briggs

Location
The Open University in London
1-11 Hawley Crescent
Camden Town
London NW1 8NP

Registration
This event is open to anyone over the age of 18. If you would like to attend please register via the ICCCR website at www.open.ac.uk/icccr.