Presentation pattern: K832 February – September, K833 October to June

Please note that all applicants will be required to tutor on both modules K832 and K833.

Module description
This is an interdisciplinary module with subject matter derived from psychology, sociology, social policy, law and social work studies. The materials will enable students to contextualise the experiences of service users and carers and approaches to social work practice, as well as providing opportunities to examine the nature of the organisations that supply social work services. Throughout the module students are encouraged to further develop their research literacy and explore how research findings can inform practice and be used by practitioners. K832/K833 are the two compulsory modules leading to the Postgraduate Diploma in Social Work which is a professionally-qualifying award.
