Why do MOOCs?

- Reputation – early adopter of educational technology
- Exploration of a new pedagogical ‘space’ to inform practice
- Wish to reach as widely as we can with our courses
- Sharing experiences with peer universities
- Fun!
 - Not money
 - Not direct recruitment

Age

Reasons for Studying on a MOOC vs Age Profiles

Highest level of academic study completed

Two types of MOOC research are most common

“Who studies on MOOCs?”

e.g. University of Edinburgh

Items: Demographics, MOOC intentions, satisfaction, prior experiences, future intentions

Survey sources: incomplete (often <20% response rates)

Ethics: explicit

“What do MOOC learners actually do on course?”

e.g. MIT, EPFL

Items: Groups of learner types, stop-out points, use of online tools, mastery, discussion forum behaviours

System data: 100% but only records on-system study

Ethics: ambiguous

On how #edcmooc did a cmooc on Coursera

#edcmooc

By demonstrating that you could build a very “open” course on Coursera, the University of Edinburgh team in charge of E-learning and Digital Cultures succeeded in breaking down some walls between the large-scale free course (called xMOOC by some critics) and the cMOOC connectivist learn-fest.

#edcmooc

1. MOOCs are multiple - cMOOC/xMOOC binary no longer holds
2. MOOC pedagogy is not embedded in MOOC platform
3. The teacher persists in the MOOC

Adapted from Bayne & Ross 2014

Bayne, S., & Ross, J. (2014) The pedagogy of the Massive Open Online Course: the UK view: Higher Education Academy.

In Summary

- Mostly adults of working age, well-educated, global with concentrations in developed countries, learning for interest
- Demographics changing slowly, can be influenced
- Large numbers of learners in the minority groups
- Interest in study for career etc rising
- As with all online education, continuous study hard to sustain against external pressures

Potential for scaling up thru technology

Content

(video, readings, Etc)

Text-based interaction

(discourse, questions, tweets, posts etc)

Assessment

(MCQ, short text, essay, peer grading, competence testing)

Bespoke academic Input

(career advice, high stakes assessment etc)

Scalable to massive

Human only (1: small)

“Coding the teacher: teacherbot”

A sample of the sorts of automations we might consider building:

- Automated twitter responses (UoE ongoing)
- Adaptive comparative judgement for peer assessment (UoE ongoing)
- Semantic analysis of discussion forums (TA dashboard)
- Group assigner (random, 1st come 1st served, learner choice, learner characteristics)
- Group dynamics visualiser (TA dashboard)
- Objective test harvesting & piloting
- Random question delivery & analysis for mastery
- Intelligent automated learner ‘prompter’ (TA dashboard)
- Simple A-B experiment management system

The background of the slide features a large, faint watermark of the Edinburgh Business School logo. The logo is circular and contains a shield with a book and a quill, surrounded by the text 'EDINBURGH BUSINESS SCHOOL'.

So what does this mean for our mainstream business

- Credit-bearing education to Bachelor, Master and PhD levels, and CPD?
- Both on-campus and off-campus (and hybrid)?

Surprises

- Real-time MOOCs - elections
- Access activity – whole classes
- Continuing MOOC cohorts
- Books from MOOCs
- Driving online Master's recruitment
- Massive reputation boosts
- Successful use of open source
- Data homogeneity around World

Conclusions

- eLearning Not New
- eLearning Now Mature
- Hybrid will be New Normal
- Better to Borrow than do Badly
- Learning at Scale is Real
- Biggest Contribution is Access
- Ecology becoming Richer
- Surprising worldwide similarities
