

Preparing for Stage 1 of the Green Gown Awards application

Impact

Start to measure your impact by building requests for feedback into your activities. Combining qualitative quotes and quantitative information paints a brighter picture. We used Miro to gather evidence and impact together in one place.

Feedback

Invite others' perspectives. Approach those who may be able to support you, especially if they have been involved with the GGA or other awards in the past. Invite your network to give you feedback. Allow enough time to act on any suggestions.

Evidence

Include pictures from any events you hold as well as quotes from those your work has had an impact on.

Research

Look at the range of last year's winning entries and don't be overwhelmed.

Positivity

Keep a gratitude folder to save all the positive notes you receive related to your activity. This is a good source of information for the award application.

Scale

Ask your line manager for their perspective and how your activities could be scaled for growth.
