2007	Hubei Province Lianfeng Overseas Agriculture Development Co., Ltd (Hubei Lianfeng), State-Owned Company	China's Hubei Province signed Agricultural Twinning agreement for rice production	In mid-2007, Hubei province in China and Gaza province in Mozambique signed a twinning-agreement that stipulated ensuring rice production in an area of 300 hectares, modernizing farming infrastructure, sending agricultural experts, and building a canal. Reports have indicated that China agreed to send $800 million for agriculture, canals, dams, and experts, but it is unclear what portion of this amount is going specifically to the twinning agreement provisions. It is likely that a majority of those funds are represented in projects ID#1197 and ID#1215. The agreement was to develop 300 hectares to demonstrate irrigated rice, but as of 2009/2010, only about 35-40 hectares had been developed, and an application for more land has been placed. 2007	Anhui Foreign Economic Construction Group Co., Ltd. (AFECC), State-Owned Company	First phase of Maputo International Airport Upgrade (Linked to Project ID #1222)	Phase One of the expansion of the Maputo International Upgrade began in 2007 with the construction of new VIP/Presidential, Cargo and International Passenger Terminals aimed at boosting passenger capacity from 300'000 passengers per year, to 900'000 a year. The terminals were built at a cost of USD 75million with funding coming in the form of a low interest Chinese loan. The main contractor was Anhui Foreign Economic Construction (Group) Co. Ltd. (AFECC), The refurbishment work is being carried out by AFECC and encompasses the modernisation and expansion of the airport's domestic and international passenger terminals as well as the construction of a Presidential VIP terminal, a cargo depot and a control tower. The US$ 6.7 million cargo depot, which is self-financed by the airport, has already been constructed and is in operation, and the site where the Presidential VIP terminal is to be built has been identified. The project also includes the construction of access roads, a car park and a duty free area. The work is scheduled to be completed in June 2010, but was actually completed in November 2010. 2007	Anhui Foreign Economic Construction Group Co., Ltd. (AFECC), State-Owned Company	China Built New Presidential Palace in Mozambique	In 2007, China announced that it would fund and construct a new presidential palace in Maputo. The loan was arranged by the Chinese government, and its financial value has not been made public. On January 24, 2014, Mozambique's President Armando Guebuza inaugurated a new Chinese-built presidential office complex in the capital. Officials have not disclosed the building costs, which were financed through the loan arranged by the Chinese government. China's Foreign Economic Construction Corporation (AFECC) built the two-story complex in 18 months.	completion	Loan (excluding debt rescheduling)
2008		China provided $18 million Loan to boost Agricultural Projects	In November 2008, the Mozambican and Chinese governments signed three agreements in Maputo under which China is to provide a total of 43 million dollars in loan and grant finance. One loan of 18 million US dollars was to support agricultural projects in the Zambezi Valley. The agreements were signed by Mozambican Finance Minister Manuel Chang and the Chinese ambassador, Tian Guangfong, under the terms of the Cooperation Protocol signed in February, during the visit to China by Mozambican President Armando Guebuza. It is possible that this commitment is related to the Agricultural research centers, ID#1215. The fund would be provided by China Exim Bank. 2009		Construction of Agricultural Research Center/Agriculture Station	In August 2009 it was reported that China was building the Agricultural Technology Research and Transfer Centre near the Umbeluzi Agricultural Station. The project was expected to be completed by the first quarter of 2010. The center was supposedly one of two agricultural research centres being built by China and will boast agricultural laboratories and crop-testing areas, and will also undertake aquaculture research. The Chinese government is investing a total of US$700 million in the centres. On July 9, 2011 China handed over the completed Agrarian Technology Transfer Center in Umbeluzi in the district of Boane in the capital Maputo at a cost of 6 million USD (Around 55M RMB). More information is needed about the discrepancy between the 700 million needed for centers and the 6 million it cost to build one. Linked to project ID #1211 and project ID #1197. STAFF_NOTE: It was reported by some sources that the project was funded for fifty five million USD not the originally reported six million. This is likely a reporting a error as 55M yuan is roughly equal to six million USD. This is confirmed in the footnotes of the "Zambezi Valley" blog post attached below. The figure of 700,000,000 US dollars is likely a ballpark estimate of the cost of all 10 centers.	completion	Grant	6,000,000

2009		China renovates anti-malaria center in Maputo	China assisted in setting up and renovating a malaria control center in Maputo, Mozambique. China renovated Influen Hospital's laboratories and training rooms, provided equipment, and sent a group of doctors to train the staff. According to the Mozambican Ambassador to China, Antonio Inacio Junio, China helped conceive the infrastructure for the new center. The center started operation on October 30, 2009, and it was officially handed over on November 25, 2009 with Mo Garrido, Mozambican Minister of Health, and Tian GuangFeng, Chinese Ambassador, in attendance. 4 malaria experts were sent sent on September 15, 2009 to Angola (#32853) first for 45 days and then to Mozambique for another 45 days to help with malaria control training. According to a 2011 Working Series report, after the establishment of the anti-malaria center, Chinese experts could set up and test the facilities, exchange ideas with local specialists and give technological training to medical staff. For the following three years, the Chinese government provided the center „Ž facilities and drugs free of charge. It is important that the center should serve as national bases not only for laboratory and clinical departments, but also, and more importantly, for research into anti-malaria strategies (including malaria prevention), for exchanges of advanced technology and for training medical staff.	completion	Grant

2010	Anhui Foreign Economic Construction Group Co., Ltd. (AFECC), State-Owned Company	Second phase of Maputo International Airport Upgrade (Linked to Project ID #21389)	On Jun 18, 2010 the vice president of the Exim Bank, Zhu Hongjie, said that the Exim Bank would disburse a soft loan of 65 million USD for the second and final phase of Maputo International Airport upgrade. This somewhat conflicts with information that states that phase 2 had two major components. The first component of stage 2, the construction of a new international terminal, was allegedly funded through a $75 million USD mixed loan from China. Reports state that $50 million USD of the project came from a subsidized loan, and the remaining $25 USD million from a loan at commercial rates. Additionally, reports state that second component of phase 2, the construction of the domestic terminal, cost 75 million dollars funded by China in the form of a low interest loan. The implementing agency that constructed both terminals was the Chinese company AFECC. In November 2010, a ceremony marked the completion of component 1 of Phase 2, the new international passenger terminal of Maputo International Airport. Mozambican president Armando Guebuza and the Minister for Transport and Communications Paulo Zucula attended the ceremony. Work on component 2, the domestic terminal began in April 2011. The construction of the domestic terminal was completed on June 19, 2012 and work was underway on installing its cooling system, electrical appliances, safety equipment, escalators and flight information display system. The domestic terminal was scheduled for inauguration in October 2012, and was completed by October 9th 2012 . At the time of the announcement the Chinese Bank for Development also announced that it would disburse 80 million USD to construct a new cement plant in Sofala #1221, as well as 20 million USD for the construction of a cotton processing plant in Magude #1223. 2011	China Road & Bridge Corporation (CRBC), State-Owned Company	China Exim Bank provided $681.6 million loan for Maputo-Catembe Bridge	In October of 2011, Lourenco Sambo, the Mozambican Investment Promotion Centre's general director, announced that China would finance a bridge from Maputo to Catembe. The bridge will be 3km long and 48 meters high so that ships can continue to travel below. China would take over financing from Portugal, which could no longer fulfill the commitment. On June 1, China Exim Bank extended a $72.5 million credit for bridge construction, however it later expanded its commitment to $681.6 million and to include construction of the Catembe-Ponta do Ouro (100km) and upgrading of the Bela Vista-Boane roads. On Wednesday, July 19, 2012, the official loan agreement was signed by Mozambican Finance Minister, Manuel Chang, with the Export Import Bank of China. Construction will take 3 years to finish putting the estimation to 2015; China Road and Bridge Corporation (CRBC) was awarded the contract for construction. Overall costs add up to $725 million US dollars with the Exim Bank subsidizing 95% of it and the state government of Maputo putting in 5%. The total amount of the Exim Bank loan was $681.6 million, with a maturity of 20 years, a grace period of 5 years, and an interest rate of 4%. The bridge will have four tolls to help pay for the loan. The first brick of the bridge was supposedly laid on September 20, 2012, but according to the latest report from April 24, 2013, construction will begin in the second half of the year. 2012		Exim Bank gives $300mil loan for Maputo Ring Road	On February 17, 2012, China's ExIm Bank signed a loan agreement with Mozambique for 300 million USD. Designed to fund the construction of a ring road around Maputo, the loan was ratified by the Council of Ministers on February 28. The road is to consist of six sections with a total of 74 km of road; 52 km will be new road while 22 km will consist of upgrading existing roads. The construction was planned to begin before June of 2012, but the first stone was officially laid by the president on September 20. The China Road and Bridge Corporation is constructing the road, which should take an estimated 2 and a half years. In 2014, 230 workers went on strike. The funding for this project was reportedly secured during President Guebuza's visit to China as part of $10 billion USD in funding secured for development projects. Other road projects funded through this include #31066, #31132, #31133, #31134, #31135, #31136, #31137, and #31138.	Implementation	Loan (excluding debt rescheduling)	300,000,000

2014		China EXIM Bank offers $120 million soft loan to Mozambique for rehabilitation of the fishing port	Mozambique Finance Minister Manuel Chang and the Chinese ambassador, Li Chanhua signed a framework agreement with China with a view to granting a loan of US$120 million for reconstruction of the fishing port of Beira, in Mozambique's Sofala province. Rehabilitation of the Beira fishing port would stimulate the economy of central Mozambique, and particularly of Sofala province. When the work was complete, the port would handle 70,000 tonnes of fishery produce a year. The rehabilitation would create new jobs, and increase the port's freezing and storage capacity. This agreement falls within the scope of the Mozambican government's priority projects for the period 2013-2015, which were submitted to the Chinese government for financing. The agreement creates necessary conditions for the exim bank to issue the loan.
